The Keynote of Modern Business Is "Service"

Clear the Decks for Fun Second Week Is Coming!

With Theater Party, Auto Ride, Barbecue, Ball Game, as Attractions, Second Week of Convention Promises to Bring Bigger Crowd of Merchants Than First.

Well, the first week has gone. Three cheers for the second!

A careful survey of the city after the first week of the 1914 Southern Merchants' convention failed to find a dissatisfied individual. Every merchant who was here expressed himself as delighted with the entertainment which had been provided for him and it was with the utmost reluctance that large numbers of them tore themselves away to return to their duties at home. If every delegate who wished to move his family and pinpoints up to Atlanta could carry out his wishes, the population of the city would undoubtedly reach that half million mark in a few weeks.

The wholesale and manufacturing houses have enjoyed splendid business. The merchants have been in and bought good bills all over the city. The general result is that, while they may not have been any more bills bought than at the 1912 convention, the average size of the bills has been larger, so the business done shows up well in comparison.

The meetings held each morning in the Auditorium have been an unequalled success. Large numbers of magnificent addresses have been given, and the short, five-minute talks from the different merchants present have done wonders to bring the troubles of the retailers of the South to a focus and render it possible for them to organize so that they can work together for the eradication of this irritation.

At the Fourth theater on Tuesday night and at the Piedmont Driving club on Thursday afternoon, the merchants enjoyed the hospitality of their hosts in big numbers. These features of the convention have given that social flip to a week of hard work which is needed to bring the individuals into lower personal accord.

Second Week's Program.

Tuesday morning starts the second week of the big time. There is a program all ready arranged of entertainment features which are sure to attract hundreds of merchants who could not get away for the first half of the doing.

The program starts off with a theater party at the Foxworth on Monday night. The entire theater has been engaged and it is expected that the curtain will rise to a full house.

Tuesday afternoon The Constitution Spring Line will run an automobile sight-seeing trip around the city. The cars will leave The Constitution building at 2 p. m. and will call at a number of manufacturing plants, in order to give the merchants some further idea about the goods which are made here and which they will doubtless give the preference to in their purchases when shown that all other points are at least equal about a dozen factories will be visited and the entire trip will occupy about three hours.

Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m. there will be a barbecue and Brunswick stew at Ponce de Leon Springs. This is always one of the most popular features of the convention and many merchants arrange their trip in order to be in the city for this occasion.

The final entertainment of the convention will be a ball game at the Ponce de Leon ball park, between Atlanta and Chattanooga. There are hundreds of fans, both amateur and professional, who will be present. Saturday will be devoted to saying "Au Revoir" and making dates for the next convention in February.

"MAY WE MEET AGAIN SOON AND OFTEN"

YANCEY HILL ON CROP DIVERSITY

Leading Montezuma Merchant Tells Personal Experiences In Strong Speech Advocating Diversified Crops.

The following is the address delivered by Yancey Hill, a leading dry goods merchant of Montezuma, at the convention meeting of Tuesday last.

Before giving you what I consider the correct solution to this question, I want to discuss the importance of the farmers of Georgia in this connection. It is sufficient to supply their needs, saving nothing of the great variety of crops that they could successfully and profitably raise. It is an admitted fact that Georgia was once a great agricultural state, a larger variety of crops than any state in the Union.

It is also a fact that she can produce as much or more corn, oats and hay per acre than any other state, and in the face of these facts, we are shipping into her borders every year more grain and hay than we produce for the farmers and these interested in farming to ship with a conviction as this to exist and continue is a travesty on the intelligence of our people.

Why is it that our farmers are today in debt and dependent upon the bankers and merchants to add them in making crops? It is because they have been depending almost entirely

Change of Headquarters

Secretary Harry T. Moore wishes to announce that for the second week of the Southern Merchants' Convention, the place of registration will be changed. Instead of the Auditorium, the registration booth will be established at the Piedmont hotel, where all incoming merchants are requested to register immediately upon their arrival in the city.

GET IT WHILE IT'S HOT

D. B. Lewis, with the Capital City Tobacco company, has been on the list for a week or so. He was up to the office for a short time Thursday and will be back on the job on Monday morning. W. B. Carlton has made several points for him this week.

J. W. Hudson, with the Lamar & Rankin Drug Co., is out again tomorrow on his east Georgia territory after a two weeks' vacation.

J. P. Jenkins, the Florida man with Brown, Freeman & Greene Co., is one of the salesmen who is in for the convention and is having a mighty good time. Mr. Jenkins is so proud of Florida that they are christening him "a bud from the land of flowers."

Williams & Meyer, of Baltimore, Md., are showing their complete line in fourteen large sample rooms in the Aragon hotel. The display is in charge of Z. M. Williams and is one of the most complete lines of holiday goods that comes to the city. They come here every year with this display and this year it has even outdone those of previous years. Atlanta is chosen for their southern headquarters on this trip no account of the central position and ease for distribution.

P. H. Jeter, with John Silver & Co., has been the busiest man on the list with them for the entire week. This is his first convention experience as a local salesman, and he is tickled to death with everything pertaining to the honorary position.

Jim Bates, house salesman with Brown, Freeman & Greene company, states that he is enjoying the experience of meeting all his old friends amongst the merchants. It is now about three months since Mr. Bates left the road and it is a novel experience with him to be meeting his old friends for the first time as a local man.

J. H. MOER, Merchant of Lawtonville, Ga., who delivered splendid speech at Thursday's meeting.

J. M. Fritz, traveling northwest Georgia for the Lamar & Rankin Drug Co., reports nice business and the finest crops he ever saw.

Temporary Organization Formed at Friday Session

Officers Are Empowered to Draw Up Charter to Submit at Meeting Next February, When Permanent Organization Will Be Formed.

At Friday's meeting of the convention a temporary organization of the body was formed with the following officers: J. W. Vaughan, of Cartersville, president; R. O. Crouch, vice president; T. E. Smith, second vice president; H. T. Moore, secretary and treasurer.

The committee which recommended this temporary organization was composed of J. W. Vaughan, chairman; R. O. Crouch and H. E. Choate. The resolution which they submitted to the convention, and which was finally accepted, was as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:

We, the committee appointed to formulate a plan of temporary organization of this body, beg leave to submit the following report:

We recognize the necessity of mature deliberation in the working out of a comprehensive plan, and we therefore have contended ourselves with suggesting only an outline for a tentative organization which, if adopted, will enable those in charge to proceed with the perfecting of plans for a permanent organization.

We recommend the adoption of the following as the plan of a temporary organization, to be made permanent hereafter provided:

First: That the organization be known as Southern States Merchants' Organization.

Second: That the headquarters of said association be in Atlanta, Ga.

Third: That the object of said organization be the cooperation among its members in all things calculated to advance their interests and the welfare of our section.

Fourth: That the executive officers of said association consist of a president, a first vice president, a second vice president and a secretary and treasurer and that said officers be elected at this meeting.

Fifth: That a committee be appointed by the incoming president to formulate a charter and a set of bylaws.

We are thankful for so few cases of illness reported during the entire hot weather. All the C. S. A. boys are on the job most all the time.

"Buddy" Harding, with the National Mercantile company, presents his smiling face at nearly every meeting. The faithful will receive their reward.

Our annual barbecue will be held on Saturday, August 23. We are anticipating a good crowd, and are assured of a good time by the committee in charge.

Brother T. J. Camp, with Bell Bros., was reported ill at Davis & Fischer's restaurant. We trust he will soon be well again.

Brother John Baker appeared at the meeting yesterday morning minus his mustache. Brother Baker has worn this mustache since the memory of man runseth not to the contrary, and his being without it was such a surprise to his friends that they could hardly recognize him. He was first taken for a 17-year-old boy who had slipped in among us. Now don't let you old boys shake at the same time.

Emory S. Morris was elected treasurer at the meeting yesterday morning. He is pleased to have Brother Morris in our line of officers, and are sure he will always be found with his shoulder to the wheel helping to push the C. S. A. ahead.

Boys, don't forget the hour of meeting—10 o'clock, Saturday morning, fourth floor, city hall.

Committee on Nominations.

The committee on nominations of the convention was as follows: Louis F. Baskin, chairman; C. W. McClure, J. R. Mobley and W. L. Percy.

CHOATE TALKS ON STOCK INSURANCE

Treasurer of J. K. Orr Shoe Co. Gives Able Address On Important Feature of Mercantile Safety.

The following speech was given by Herbert E. Choate, treasurer of J. K. Orr Shoe company, at the Friday session of the convention. It treats of an exceedingly important factor in the success of any merchant, and is worthy of the deepest study by all merchants.

The subject of the address is "Can a Merchant Afford to Insure His Capital by Failure to Properly Insure His Stock?"

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention: I could wish that so important a subject had been assigned to other hands.

"It is to be presumed that in a general way no clear-minded business man would for a moment oppose a negative answer to this query, but unfortunately a great many of us will accept as a matter of course the advisable and certain lines of conduct and afterwards assume a risk in disregard of such rules as far as we are individually concerned.

"Ben Franklin wisely observed that 'vigilance is a hard school, but fools will learn in no other and scarce in this.' I think our philosopher might

AN INVITATION

TO VISITING MERCHANTS:

While in Atlanta attending the Southern Merchants Convention, August 4-15, we want you to make our store your headquarters. Our salesmen will be here to meet you.

You are invited to visit our show rooms and examine our immense line of Foreign and Domestic Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Notions, Etc., one of the most complete ever offered.

We want you to go to our modern Shirt Factory--the only one in the South--and there, at first hand, see our famous "Aragon Brand" line of shirts made; visit our Factory No. 2 and see cut and finished hundreds of dozens of "Aragon Brand" trousers, overalls and work shirts.

A cordial welcome awaits you.

No lace has been so favored by the modiste, the costumer, the private dress maker as this, the most popular of trimming. Sheer and dainty, the possibility of copying from highest character laces is most pronounced.

Shadow lace lends itself to the embellishment of lingers, children's dainty club and function dresses and any use in soft and clinging effects are desired. A grand assortment to be cleared out by us without reference to former prices--4 to 10 inches wide. Beautiful laces, all to go at one price Monday . .

$3.95 Is the Price Monday for Certain Pretty Summer Dresses and Suits

Dresses and Suits that earlier in the season were priced as high as $20. The price for Monday is a small consideration when you remember that you have at least two months' wearing time ahead for such apparel. Then a number of the suits and dresses are made of good, lasting, practical materials such as one likes to carry over from one season to another: Linens, ratines, crashes and voiles; there are plenty of dainty frocks of crepes and crepe voiles—dresses such as women will be delighted to find at $3.95.

New Suits Are Being Bought Here Daily

Women who come in merely to look, to get an idea of the fall styles, often find them too tempting to leave without buying. They truly are irresistible! Their elegance of material and trimmings—they are very little trimmed save on collar and cuffs—and fancy vestees—the smartness of fashion—the prettiness of draped skirts—all combine to make the Suits for the coming season of unusual beauty and charm.

Smart Suits at $15 and $20

Two-piece Suits—stylish cutaway coats of navy or black mannish serge with draped or plain skirt of black-and-white shepherd checks. Such Suits will be very popular for Fall and Winter.

New Serge Dresses in blue and black are priced at $10.75.

Snip! Go Prices on Wanted Laces

Beautiful Bands at 98c Instead of $1.25, $1.50 and $1.75 Yd.

The coming season is to be one of Lace—whole lace dresses with double and triple flounces of rich lace will be seen everywhere. Bands will be needed for many trimming purposes. These are such popular laces as shadow, chantilly and Venise; white, cream and ecru bands; 3/4 to 8 inches wide.

Fancy Needleworkers Attention!!

Leisure summer hours and empty hands turn one's thoughts to Fancy Needlework.

Many women are busy already with plans for making Christmas gifts. They are buying every day materials for developing various useful and beautiful gifts, which will be pleasantly fashioned during the coming, otherwise idle, hours on the porch.

A visit to our Fancy Goods Department will delight you, for there is everything here in the way of materials, of all kinds, and very many helpful suggestions.

ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, AUGUST 10, 1913

THE QUALITY KID BY JOHN R. BRAY.

Defense Will Renew Attack Upon Dr. Harris' Testimony

That the defense at the trial of Leo M. Frank, charged with the murder of Mary Phagan, will continue its attack upon the testimony of Dr. H. P. Harris, who made a postmortem examination of the body and declared the girl must have died at about 12:10 in the afternoon, was the infor-ation secured Saturday. That the defense will take the case to the next week for presentation of their side is no longer should they place Frank's case on record, has already been known. The defense attorneys present indications the arguments of the defense will begin a week from Saturday.

When court convenes Monday morning H. O. Schiff, one of Frank's attorneys, will ask the court to stand for further cross-examination by the state. Solicitor Hagan will then ask the state what court adjourned Saturday.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE CONVENTION

Southern Merchants Convention Passes Number of Resolutions Which Endorse Most Important Movements Now Before the South.

The following are the resolutions which were submitted by the resolutions committee and passed by the convention at Piedmont Driving Club last Thursday.

Preamble.
1. Whereas, statistics show that the cotton crop of Georgia sold for less money than amount of grain, hay, meat and dairy products shipped into our state during the year 1912.

2. Whereas, it has been demonstrated by the huge corn crop of the state that grain can be profitably grown.

3. Whereas, diversified farming and rotation of crops will preserve the soil, give general prosperity and save the credit of farmer, merchant and banker.

Therefore, Be it resolved, That we the Southern Merchants, in convention assembled, recommend to the people throughout the cotton belt of our southern states a diversified farming and rotation of crops as a surplus money crop.

Whereas, The law of Georgia, so far as her mercantile interests are concerned, are most just and adequate, and whereas the Retail Merchants' association of Georgia, one of the most active and progressive organizations of the business men of our state, have heretofore and still are earnestly endeavoring to have passed such laws as will directly and fairly protect the mercantile interests of the state, therefore be it resolved.

Resolved, That the Southern Merchants' convention, in convention assembled, in Atlanta, Georgia, on the 27th of August, 1913, do hereby endorse the work and efforts being made by the Retail Merchants' association of Georgia, its officers and committee, and be it further.

Resolved, That we recommend to give their active support to the Retail Merchants' association of Georgia in the most commendable work they are doing.

Whereas, The good effect of the work of the convention is largely due to the reason of failure to get it before the public in permanent shape, therefore.

Be it resolved, That the proceedings of this convention be published in full in permanent form and provision made for the distribution of a sufficient number of copies through the delegates attending and by other means, so that the several cities become widely informed as to the purpose and work of the Southern Merchants' association.

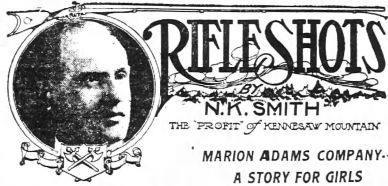

W. A. BRANNON,
M. S. CANTY,
BERNARD SUTTER,
Committee.

J. W. O'Donnell, the Retail Irishman who sold the goods that Dobbie & Wey Co. handle, has been a faithful convention booster and has attended each meeting of the week. He states that he has had a handy time and has sold many good bills.

STARTING FOR THE RECEPTION

MARION ADAMS COMPANY—A STORY FOR GIRLS

Miss Marion Adams, of Montvale, sat on the front veranda of the beautiful hotel at White Sulphur Springs meditating over the various experiences that had been hers during the summer vacation now drawing to a close. Of course, this is not her real name—her name is Montvale, Ga., her home. Miss Adams having completed her senior year at a celebrated college, her parents decided upon her taking this vacation, which had been very pleasant to her until a short while before her turning home. As she meditated, she could not help but realize that nature did not intend any of the animal kingdom to be idle, nor to avoid work, and that nature did intend that each individual, no matter what their station in life might be, by force of circumstances, should be occupied in some pursuit that would constitute an honest effort and bring returns that would be sufficient to clothe and feed any one.

When Miss Marion's return to her home at Montvale she decided to embark in an undertaking very unusual and one that would require a great deal of mental and physical exertion. Like most young ladies who have completed the usual course at college, having absorbed a great amount of theory, a large amount of ancient history, ancient languages and art, she found that her knowledge of the community was very small and that the greater portion of life was a de-time of the first fruits and vegetables that we wish to use. I propose to secure the service of a competent contractor, who will construct this building at as low a cost as possible consistent with convenience and durability.

In order to have an abundance of material to operate with, I propose to begin a campaign of advertising running through the winter months to reach all the farmers and producers in this vicinity, advising them through these advertisements that they can find a cash market for their products of the nature provided it is brought here in proper condition and handled by them in a thoroughly sanitary manner. And also that they may increase the usual planting of such vegetables as they may need.

"Now, girls, what do you think of the plan?"

"How splendid!" This is just grand. "How perfectly lovely!" "You can think of the levellest thing!" "I believe it will be due for us and we can make some money."

"Well, girls, how much stock will you take?"

One girl replied, "What kind of plan have you for organizing a company?" "Well," said Miss Marion, "None of us know anything about law and lesser towns with humanity, and this a corporation, and I'll leave to you the selection of the name."

Miss Josephine Strong instantly suggested the name to be "The Marion Adams Home-Made Preserving company," which was voted the proper name. All the girls being enthusiastic over the proposition, they got paper and pencils and began to develop the idea. After going over a few details, each girl picked her pro rata part of the necessary capital to finance the organization, realizing that by some self-reliance they would easily save from useless expenditures sufficient money to enable them to pay into the treasury as the demand arose for financing the business. Marion Adams kept complete minutes of the organizing of the company, and each girl over her signature pledged herself faithfully to give her support and cooperation to every detail. Upon returning to her home that evening she did some more meditating upon the immense possibilities for good that can result from the development and carrying out of what at first glance seemed to be a very simple proposition. She realized how empty any life must be that has not some fixed motive and undertaking to follow that leads to a closer touch with humanity, and also development of the resources of nature, most wonderful of them all. She could see before her many children in the country and in the suburbs, and even in town, who had little stimulus in the summer with baskets on their arms out in the hills and dunes carefully picking from nature's garden the first dewberries, the small blackberries, huckleberries and plums, seen them trudging to market, happy to receive full value for their day's toil which brought them less contentment to them than if they had been engaged in play. They felt no loss fatigued than if they had been pursuing some game all during the bright sunshiny hours.

This might appear to some as an idle dream, she thought, and she realized that many objections would have to be overcome from her parents, and that pressure would be brought to bear upon her and some possible reverses might come which would seek to cause her to relinquish the undertaking. But Marion Adams was not unlike any other human being that becomes thoroughly obsessed with an idea that has enough good in the ultimate result, and she determined to carry out her plan, despite all obstacles that might arise.

During the fall months her building was constructed, her stockholders giving her their enthusiastic support and each one found that they were much happier when their time was occupied in planning and carrying out this great idea. Her advertisements had come forth—some of them contained requests for personal letters giving estimates of the quantities of fruits and vegetables that could be supplied. Necessarily, all information about her business and her plans had become public, and was being commented on by the entire community, and had become popular. This interest created brought to her applications from a number of other young ladies in the community who desired to become interested in the business. And after the field was open, and that any girl that cared to take part in the work in law could do so. The original five girls remained in undisputed control as partners, and before proceeding farther, it was decided to organize a salesforce. By making a careful survey of the material in hand, it was decided to take the most adaptable girls and organize them into an efficient salesforce to carry a list with them of the goods that would be preserved and pickled and to make a canvass of each home in this town and book orders for any quantity that housewives might need.

And if there were not sufficient orders to consume the estimated product of the company, these girls were to go in pairs and visit nearby cities and towns and make the same kind of canvass until the estimated product was disposed. All these plans being worked out, the estimated product was prepared. All these plans being worked out, the time between was utilized in perfecting the plan—getting them in thorough shape so that they could produce a product in preliminary and pickles that would contain absolutely no injurious chemicals, would be pure and wholesome and that would keep indefinitely under the proper conditions. In due season the first berries began to arrive—every girl reported on time, donated their working clothes and began in a systematic manner under the most sanitary and comfortable conditions to prepare the fruits and vegetables and in a few days the Marion Adams Home-Made Preserving company saw the first fruits of their labors.

In glass jars, air-tight, were luscious berries, and as the fruit and vegetable season advanced, all manner of garden truck was brought there and paid for and canned instantly. The salesforce of girls sat at work on their orders had sent in enough orders to keep the plant running at full time until the end of the season. The time until the end of the season, the farmers of the community had found that it paid to devote time and attention to their vegetables and had received a larger market price than ever before in the history of Montvale. Their customers were delighted with the goods they were receiving and looked forward to the long winter months to come when they would realize the ex-

E. L. Herndon, with the Dobbie & Wey company, has been mixing with the merchants all week. He says that quite a few of his customers have been in and he has sold many nice bills.

E. L. Adams, of the E. L. Adams company, will spend next week at Indian Spring with his family.

W. S. Robinson is the name of a new man with the M. C. River company. He will cover the Tennessee territory, succeeding R. S. Egan, Jr., who goes into south Georgia. Mr. Robinson was previously with the Roberts & Hogg company.

All the salesmen of the Ridley-Wilkinson-Wyatt company are in the city and are kept busy waiting on their trade. H. T. Yates says that the outlook is brilliant for a huge success, so far as they are concerned at any rate.

SENATE UNANIMOUSLY PASSES MEDICAL BILL

Amendments of House Are Concurred In—Other Bills Passed on Saturday.

The house amendments to the medical practice bill were yesterday concurred in by the senate by a unanimous vote. The main effects of these amendments is to take the majority of the board from the allopaths by increasing the membership of the board to ten members instead of eight,
adding one eclectic and one homoeopath,
so that the allopaths will be left with the same membership as the eclectics and the homoeopaths combined.

Senator Hixon's bill requiring better sanitation of dairies and food-producing establishments, catfishes and butcheries and providing for the general betterment of sanitary conditions and the elimination of filth, was passed by the senate by a vote of 24 to 4. Senators Harrell, Chitt, Mc-Gregory and Kea voted against the measure.

The bill of Senator McCall requiring railroads to erect awnings before road crossings was passed.

The bill to make it a misdemeanor to issue a check when at the time of said issuance there is not sufficient funds in the bank to meet the demand and unless withdrawn in full within thirty days, was argued for about an hour, and finally postponed for action until Monday morning.

GIVEN SILVER SERVICE.

Ernest Rhodes Remembered by Employees on 50th Birthday.

Ernest L. Rhodes, head of the Ernest
L. Rhodes company, wholesale millinery, celebrated his golden birthday Friday, on which occasion he was presented with a handsome silver service a gift from the employees of the company.

The gift was presented at the home of Mr. Rhodes at Austell, Friday evening. Mr. Rhodes having been induced by a friend to take a motor trip, in order that the office force of the company, about twenty-five strong, could reach his home before his arrival. Mr.
Rhodes had been apprised of what was going forward, and had the lawn carefully arranged and a table set out laden with good things to eat, in the center of which stood an immense cake lighted with fifty candles.

A chorus singing representing the employees, made the presentation of the silver and delivered a glowing tribute to Mr. Rhodes, as a friend and fellow worker, to which Mr. Rhodes responded in a fitting manner. Mrs.
Rhodes was assisted in receiving by Mrs. W. Haynes Jones and Mrs. E. P.
Rhodes, of Lexington, Va.

An address was delivered by Mr. Rhodes consisting of an elegant compote, twelve plates and a large serving spoon, all beautifully chased and inscribed with an old English "M."

SPECIAL APPROPRIATIONS CONSIDERED BY HOUSE

Number of Appropriations for the Agricultural Department Approved Saturday.

Saturday session of the house was occupied largely with the consideration of a number of special appropriations, most of which were for the benefit of the agricultural department. The following appropriations were approved by the house:

An appropriation of $20,000, or which $5,000 shall be immediately available, for the use of the agricultural department in fighting the black rot and boll weevil. The work of the department in fighting black rot was highly commended by several members in speech.

An old statute which stood in the way of local disposal of money by the agricultural department was voted by the house to be repealed. The statute had been left on the books by oversight.

An appropriation of $7,500 was approved by the house for the use of the agricultural department in equipping and maintaining its chemical department.

An appropriation of $10,000 was granted for the maintenance of the agricultural department and for the expanding the various agricultural installations of the state.

The house passed a bill to allow the salaries of inspectors of pure food and drugs to be paid from the fees from stamp.

A bill providing that elk, gazelle, naphtha, etc. when sold outside of the state and brought into the state shall be subject to inspection in the same manner as the same when sold within the state, provided that the purchaser shall be required to be required to pay more than $10.00 per year.

Bodies Are Recovered.
Crushed and broken by hundreds of tons of coal and wreckage, the bodies of the two men, K. Harris and Freeman T. O'Connell, who were killed early Wednesday morning when Monday.

The following salaries are fixed:
superior court clerk, $5,000 per year;
tax collector, $4,000; and for tax collectors, $2,000. The salaries for the tax collectors and tax collectors by the county and by the board of commissioners.

The salary system has been approved by the grand jury and by the board of commissioners.

The bill looking to the termination of hog cholera was killed on Saturday and notice of a motion to reconsider was given.

The bill provided that owners of hogs infected with cholera should confine them separately from uninfected hogs and should bury them.

WANTED FOR MURDER OF COMMON LAW WIFE

Chicago, August 9.—John Grady, a hotel chef, was formally booked on the charge of murder today while the police continued their search for traces of his common law wife who disappeared twenty-two months ago.

Search of the Grady home has revealed portions of a woman's corset, half charred woman's supporters, eight hairpins, part of a woman's shoe heel and bits of supposed human bones.

FAILED TO KILL FAMILY AND KILLED HIMSELF

Charleston, W. Va., August 9.— Crazed with jealousy, Gilbert Cummings tried to murder his wife and daughter at their home in Turtle Creek today.

Mrs. Cummings, several wounded drove him from the house and standing at the front door he plunged a carving knife into his heart.

THE CALL OF THE CRIPPLES.

The movement for a hospital for the crippled children of Georgia is taking shape. The need of such an institution has aroused statewide interest, as it should have done long ago. Indorsed by over three hundred physicians and the people of the towns and cities of the state, it is no longer the dream of the philanthropist and humanitarian, but the ready co-operation offered, with what other assistance is sure to come, make it almost a reality. It is the answer of humanity to the cry of the children—the appeal of the helpless, and it will be a great day for the state when the doors of such an institution swing wide and free to the afflicted little ones of all communities.

Not to go into the extent of the suffering endured everywhere by crippled children whose parents are too poor to pay for relief, a little story of real life may point the moral and give some idea of the heart-breaking a child looking on life from a restricted sphere:

A little boy, crippled from birth, who was a pupil of a Georgia public school,

said to his mother: "Don't make me go to school any more. I don't have any fun

there. At recess, when the other boys are playing, I sit still and look on.

I wish they were strong and hearty, and on rough-and-tumble it, but I have to limp along. I want to play, but can't."

He had unconsciously grasped, in these simple words, the sermon of the crippled children of the state, heard by a mother who could only give him a mother's sympathy—the solace of her tears. The picture of that weeping mother and her crippled child carries its heart appeal; and it is only one of many such. Need, and the grim oppression of unrelieved poverty, must make a bread-winner of some sort of child; he must limp to labor; he must be in the battle for bread—bitter bread for him and for the lives that love him! His case is in the picture. The Constitution carries elsewhere. "There is no place for him!" Life calls, and he cannot answer, nor the way for tears.

We conceive true, we beautifully have are quick to respond to the call for the uplifting of the state in even its lesser needs, but sometimes we are strangely deaf

to that other human cry which comes up in various ways. This is the call of the children of our love—echoing from almost desolate homes, where grief sits and sunlight seems a mockery. The child is father of the man. "What type of man is it these cripples forebode?" And yet they can be made to stand with men, to face the world of the state and country.

The movement is a noble one and it should appeal to the public spirited citizens of the state.

LEGAL TECHNICALITIES.

The recent charge of Judge Charles H.

Brand to the grand jury of Jackson county superior court, in which he discussed the dangers of legal technicalities in the administration of the law, is being generally approved throughout the state.

His case was a general assembly of Georgia will awake to the necessity of taking definite action along the line of Judge Brand's suggestion—action demanding to remedy the abuses growing out of the too frequent resort to trivial technicalities to thwart the ends of justice. For after another the states of the union are leading along the same path. It is clearly significant that the supreme courts of two or three of the states have taken the position that they will not consider reversals of verdicts where the error is not clearly shown that such reversals are asked for solely on the basis that the verdict of the lower court is not justified by the evidence, where the error is not clearly to be bought on time, the wolf grows at the door.

The work and the influence of the teacher

are so important that Georgia ought to special inducements to the brightest young minds in the state to enter the profession. "Teach if you can't do better. If you care to teach you will get your pay

some day."

And so it goes. While some of the children of Georgia are blessed with the instruction, association, and influence of noble and patient men and women, countless other children, just as deserving, are suffering on account of the teachers who have quit and those who will not begin.

If the children were to blame, there might be some reason and justice in making them suffer. As it is, their native endowment is being wasted, and the state, they are expected to love above all others,

must shoulder the blame, while the innocent children suffer.

The Asheville Horse Show.

Battery Park Hotel, Asheville, N. C. August 9.—(Special).—The hundreds of southern visitors journeying at this resort at present have one all absorbing topic of the deepest interest, the coming horse show, and that it will surpass in brilliancy any such affair ever undertaken can be judged by the distinguished women who have agreed to act as patronesses for the three balls which will be given following the nightly performances at Oates park, on August 14, 16 and 18. The president this year is Robert R. Reynolds, who, by his genial personality, has won hundreds of friends, and he is to be assisted by W. C. Smith, who numbers among his large circle of acquaintances all through the south some of the best known horsemen in the country. Aside from the $1500 in cash prizes, some very handsome cups have been presented by the leading hotels, which include the Battery Park, Oates Park Inn, the Manor, and the Langren, Dr. S. Westray Battle, prominent for years in social and business circles is chairman of the entertainment committee, which will be one of the features of the horse show week.

Once more the Blumhouse, the paternal home of Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderbilt, is open and it will be the scene of many entertainments, both formal and informal, the remainder of the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt, entertained at his shooting lodge, located in the forests near the top of Mount Pisgah, over the week and the following guests, Miss Marjorie Pearson, Miss Mary Louise Swopes, Thomas Pearson and Mr. Westfeldt.

Mrs. Sara Raleigh, who is known and beloved by hundreds of people in Atlanta, was the guest of honor at the largest affair of the year, when, on Thursday, Mrs. James L. Alexander entertained at a luncheon bridge. Three day afternoon from 4 to 6:30 p. m. The tables were placed in the huge white ballroom and the prizes were very beautiful. At the conclusion of the game daily refreshments were served. The ballroom was artistically decorated with hundreds of flowers, yellow and green being the prevailing colors.

Mrs. J. Dabney Campbell, of Atlanta, was the guest of honor at a tea given by Mrs. Fred Baily, the affair taking up a time of true English fashion, the tea tables being placed about the balcony of the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Abbott, of Atlanta, are enjoying a summer in Asheville.

Mrs. James Harvey Alexander and Miss Phoebe Alexander of Atlanta, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Allen, who are spending the summer in Asheville.

Mrs. Charles James McCall, of Atlanta, and two children are guests of Mrs. Metta Moberg, Mrs. Annie P. Martin, at her home, "Riverside Heights."

Included in the latest column of Asheville guests who came to the Battery Park for the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fairman, Victor Smith, Jr. and Mrs. John S. Dear and A. C. McCallahan, others here from Atlanta during the week have been Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Blum, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Blum, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Caldwell, E. F. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fairman and Irving S. Thomas.

FRANK L. STANTON AND HIS DAUGHTER, MARCELLE, TO WHOM HE HAS WRITTEN MANY BEAUTIFUL POEMS

I don't know of any other man of whom it can be so truly said that he has offered good will, joy, blue skies, love and nothing else to his fellow men. I have never read a line from you that was not filled with hope, consolation, a vague wild courage. No man ever cast sweeter bread upon the waters, and I reckon, dear sir, it will all come home to you, dear maker of kindness. No evil can befall you, for God knows you have made your own paradise, in singing happiness for others. CORRA HARRIS.

Equal Suffrage Association Holds Interesting Meeting

At the usual semi-monthly meeting of the Equal Suffrage association, at the Carnegie library on Wednesday, an interesting program was enjoyed by a large audience.

The first speaker was Mr. Grossman, who gave a graphic account of the trip to Gainesville, Ga., where a committee from the Georgia State Suffrage association went to organize a branch of the association.

He said that the committee were well tended; that like Atlanta, there was much opposition to women having the ballot. The local committee in Gainesville had previously advised the committee from the Georgia State Suffrage association as to the debate on suffrage.

Dr. Harding, also one of the committee, made a beautiful appeal in behalf of women having an equal right with men to say who should make and who should administer the laws for her and her children, and delighted his audience by his justice.

Many names were received to form what will be called "The Gainesville Suffrage association," the first of his report, Mr. Grossman was given a rating vote of thanks for his assistance in Gainesville.

In the absence of Dr. Soule, his paper was read by Mrs. Soule. He quoted the scripture to prove that women were created equal with man, "Male and female created He them," and that the word male and female, in the original, meant "thinkers." This paper was a splendid tribute to women, and a ringing note of thanks was given with the hope that the whole paper could be published.

Mrs. Ray Kline then followed with an interesting talk on "The Story Teller's Magic," saying that although it had originated in a foreign country, it flourished here also; that in Atlanta there were seventy-five members, and more were needed. There was one at the library and the children were always glad when the day came for the telling.

Mrs. M. Whorter gave an instructive report on what had and had not been done to important bills before the assembled legislature, in which the league is much interested.

Mrs. Daniels presented a petition to be sent to the Fulton county commissioners to appoint a matron to the night jail. That there were over a hundred female prisoners, and the number increasing, hardly above the age of children, and that they needed a woman's care. It was heartily approved by the league.

The president of the league, being always on a much needed vacation, it was voted to send her a telegram saying ing that she was missed in her accustomed place, and that the league's best wishes attended her.

The meeting then adjourned to convene as usual on the third Wednesday in the month.

HANK THE HERMIT

Good Old Soul, He Lights His Pipe All Right!

By Walt McDougall

WALT MCDUGALL

This Announcement Is of Vital Interest to Everyone In Atlanta Who Has An Un- filled Want of Any Nature Whatsoever

Every Man, Woman and Child Should Read All of It!

The Constitution inaugurates with this issue a much improved and greatly simplified system for the classification of its "WANT ADS."

This system is designed to add to your convenience and aid you in the use of our "WANT AD" columns. And, as will be readily seen, it does away with the annoyance experienced by the readers of "WANT ADS" in newspapers which do not use a method as complete as The Constitution's, in locating the particular offer for which they are searching.

On the first page of the "WANT AD" Section will be found an index showing the page and column in which the different classifications are to be found.

The larger classifications have been subdivided for your convenience, as follows:

HELP WANTED—Male

Stores and Offices
Professions and Trades
Salesmen and Solicitors
Agents
Miscellaneous

FOR RENT—Rooms

Unfurnished—North Side
Unfurnished—South Side
Furnished—North Side
Furnished—South Side
Furnished or Unfurnished

HELP WANTED—Female

Stores and Offices
Domestics
Saleswomen and Solicitors
Agents
Miscellaneous

REAL ESTATE—For Sale

Business District
Residence District
Suburban
Farm Lands
Timber Lands

Similar sub-classifications have already been arranged where necessary, and others will be added when advisable.

Under this arrangement every advertisement will be placed under the classification where it rightfully belongs.

It will not be necessary for you, when looking for business property under "REAL ESTATE—For Sale—Business District" for instance, to be bored with an account of the excellence of Prof. Dodo's method of instruction on the piccolo, for that information may be found under the classification "MUSIC and DANCING," where of course you would look, if you were at all interested in taking lessons on the piccolo.

Mr. Man Out-of-a-Job, who needs work badly, and is searching the "HELP WANTED" columns for a situation, will not have to read about the superior tables in the Umtump Pool Parlors, or the charm of some new drink—for these advertisements will appear under suitable classifications, but he will find only offers of positions, one or more of which may be just to his liking.

This idea will be followed throughout all classifications.

Advertisers will, of course, at once see the wisdom of The Constitution's system, for it means to them greatly increased returns for the money expended.

They will agree that a man who is seriously looking for a job, for instance, is not a very good prospect for a pool parlor, etc.

Another innovation is the "Too Late to Classify" column which will be found in the main news section every Sunday. In future The Constitution will close its regular classified forms for Sunday's paper at 10 P. M. Saturday night. Any "WANT ADS" received after that hour will appear in the "Too Late to Classify" column.

But the most interesting fact about The Constitution's "WANT AD" columns is that every advertisement appearing in these columns is paid for by the advertiser.

Therefore every advertisement means business.

The Constitution does not give away its advertising space, nor does it offer prizes to induce people to solicit "WANT ADS" for it.

The Constitution stands on the record it has made during the forty-five years of its life, and sells its space at a fair price to one and all alike.

The Constitution knows as well as the public that---

REAL ESTATE--For Sale

REAL ESTATE TALK

BY ADAIR

There are in New York some queer old Dutch millionaires, descendants of former truck growers. Pioneer settlers on Manhattan Island used to grow beets and cabbages, carry them down in boats and sell them at the docks. Their farms were also growing something else besides vegetables; they grew city lots. The second generation became landed aristocrats and were rich enough to afford to walk downtown for exercise. One of these old millionaires left an estate of $10,000,000 to an only son. The estate consisted entirely of property in New York city.

Thirty years afterward this only son died and the estate was appraised at $30,000,000. Now the peculiar thing about it was that it was exactly the same property left by his father. Not a single parcel had been sold, not a new parcel had been bought. This is what some people call "unearned increment." It is what we would call "earned enhancement" or the natural increase in value of real estate in growing cities. A man earns it by common sense, by paying taxes and assessments, by patience and by letting stocks and bonds alone. The lure of the tax-free investment or the get-rich-quick speculation does not tempt him. Real estate enhancement is normal, customary and the owner is entitled to it.

The inheritance tax of New York turns up these stories of unusual enrichment in real estate. In consequence of the inheritance which increased from eight to thirty millions we learn of a woman who was left $5,000,000 in gilts and bonds. After a long term of years the bonds, which had been held intact, were appraised. These were worth 101, some were worth 102. This woman was a Hettie Green sort of character, who managed to live comfortably on a low income. The estate increased in value, the estate simply held its own. It was not like a certain piece of property that was sold last year for $100,000. The owner came in with an old yellow deed that almost failed to place when unfolded. It showed a purchase price of $5,000.

Income and enhancement are the twin daughters of real estate. They assist each other, and each set off the other's gains. Twenty years ago Peachtree stores rented for $100. Now these same stores rent at $1,000 a month. Each successive lease period showed an increase in value and a corresponding increase in earning capacity. There are no coupons attached to a Peachtree store, showing that thirty years from now it will yield 4½ per cent. "But bonds are easily convertible in time of stress," says the expert. A good many people who have tried to sell some lately do not seem to agree with this. Some of very gilt-edged bonds overpriced couldn't be sold at 90. In the meantime we tried to pry some central property loose from its owners, and we couldn't get any one to name price.

Figures in New York run on a large scale than they do here, but the fact process is the same. The truck farms are out on the edge of Atlanta, and growing increased value, along with their crops. They are maturing old lots, the time will come when a designer will be driving down state at lot corners out in the cornfield. The money realized from the sale will be reinvested up town in near-in property; it in time will develop into big scale real estate property, and the foundations of a large fortune will be laid. In some instances the process has been going on long enough to make what we call the rich men of Atlanta. What made them rich? The land increased in value.

Taking it all in all, the year real estate is the best investment the average man. Without any knowledge or inside information, people are successfully dealing stocks or bonds. One man in Fulton county made a thorough test of stock business. His name was Miller, and the records of his success are on file in the ordinary office. He came a historic. This man, at the time of his death, owned 75,000 shares of 68 different companies. His holdings brought $4.45 at administrator's sale.

Big Pure Food Show For Atlanta Next November

Excerpt From Prospect. "The prospect is from the prospect which the sponsors of the show are sending out: 'The exposition is educational—to increase the confidence of the public in the South; to show the progress of the South in the fields of agriculture, industry, commerce, and the arts; to show the progress of the South in the fields of food and medicine, and to bring manufacturers, distributors, and consumers into closer contact.'"

"Heavy approval has been given to the enterprise by the state legislatures of Georgia and South Carolina, and the National Bureau of Commerce and Agriculture has agreed to make an exhibit."

We have with us again this week "Whitey Mayes," salesman for the L. C. Smith & Brother Typewriter company. Mayes (or Whitey) works Laurence Costa, salesman for the Athens Fruit company, is just back from Cincinnati, where he went to visit his brother.

"Our business houses have accounts with 175,000 merchants, mostly throughout the adjoining states. "There are 10,000,000 people within a night's ride of Atlanta, and within the city's trading territory, there are 20,000,000, producing every year $3,000,000,000 from farm, forest, factory and mine. "Therefore, at this exposition, exhibitors will be within reach of one-fifth of the nation's population."

A black and white photograph of a three-story brick building, likely a warehouse or industrial structure. The building features a flat roof and large, multi-paned windows on each floor. The ground floor has a prominent entrance with a dark door and large windows. A small, dark awning is visible over the entrance. The building is situated on a street with a sidewalk and some debris visible in the foreground.

It is indeed a source of pleasure to the young ladies to tour over the beautiful, picturesque, historic ruins of Fulton County, and a source of education for them to see the model farms, poultry plants, factories and industries of many kinds.

All summer long the workmen have been busy renovating and remodeling the building from bottom to top, and the work on the campus has added much to its neat and attractive appearance.

The registration for the coming session is larger at this season than for many years. It is estimated that before school opens, rooms will be at a premium.

To keep well abreast of the times, Cox College has added some splendid teachers to its already strong faculty in both literary and conservatory departments.

The Academy of Cox College furnishes the best preparation for college courses. Fifteen units are required for college entrance.

Next session begins Sept. 10th. For beautiful illustrations and catalog, address, The Secretary. (A-45)

Washburn Seminary

SOME OF ITS STRONG FEATURES

Some of the distinctive features of Washington Seminary, Atlanta, that commend it strongly to parents seeking the best in the education of their daughters, are:

1. The exceptionally beautiful and complete equipment in grounds, buildings, furnishings and school appliances of all kinds—all on the scale of the most elegant private homes.

2. The limited boarding department, which enables the principals to make the school in reality a home for the students.

3. The personal nature of the instruction, secured by dividing classes into small sections, averaging about twelve girls to the class.

4. The OPEN AIR class rooms, connecting with each recitation room, used in all seasons of weather. The school work is thus done actually out-of-doors most of the year—a fine health feature.

COTTON CREPE UNDERWEAR.
Combination, short-sleeved, braless, nightgowns, petticoats, etc., are washable, and need no ironing when made of cotton crepe. For this reason they are a boon to the traveler.

White serge for an outer skirt in this model is particularly suitable in red and green. The plainness necessary for freedom of movement is achieved by their flat to furnish it up? Well, it's the simplest thing imaginable. Make the skirt much narrower as you can become to wear it and then use the material thus acquired for new underarm pieces—a girle for a long-sleeved, round, high-necked white net blouse. The flared on the upper section of the frock will prove that it is not a makeshift, but a component part of a costume which will prove extremely comfortable during torrid weather.

The dress on the left is composed of three different materials, the skirt and lower part of the bodice being of soft blue crepe, the yoke of plaited blue chiffon and the sleeves of brilliantly flowered silk. A fine frill of net edges the neck and sleeves.

A PRETTY NEGLIGE

A lovely cool matinee may be made of home in a day of pale blue or pink china silk. In an absolutely plain kimono style, and the edges finished with a ribbon an inch and a half wide, lapped every three inches and put flat with a row of feather-stitching by machine, through the center. The finish may be used around the neck, sleeves and front, also around the waist. Two sets of ribbons, one at the neck and another at the waist, hold the garment together. White china silk with a finish of lace or of Dresden ribbon applied in this manner is also charming.

The chic and simple treatments the neck have of late made their mark on the smart crowd of women is to slide an all-year-around chiffon sailor collar with a full ruffle and from under the points at the front of the neck, start strips of tulle for a collar that will show above the bust under a flower corsage.

The second fancy is to shape a velvet or satin band to the rounded-out neck and fasten it with a pointed cord in front and under the chin. The band at the back, slip a jacket or a plaited lace, where upper and narrow neck are joined.

Medici collar. The third necessary is the narrow black velvet band around the neck and fastened with a two-looped cord of black velvet or tulle. Some women prefer to wear this low under the chin, and others to wear it around the neck, as it fills in the space between the hair line and the edge of the lacy bodice.

AFTERNOON TEA

Keep on hand some pure candy lemon drops to use in the cup of tea instead of the juice of a lemon and sugar is quite convenient, when a lemon is not obtainable. To find a few lemon drops at hand in one's little sugar bowl.

By MONTHS MONTHS

OME women are naturally neat. Those who are not, and who do not realize the importance of being so dressed, acquire a reputation for being slovenly. The women who are careless about their appearance are always the least liked. Neatness is the result of a good character. It is the sign of a woman who is self-respecting and who is not ashamed of her appearance. It is the sign of a woman who is not ashamed of her work. It is the sign of a woman who is not ashamed of her life. It is the sign of a woman who is not ashamed of her soul.

It is obvious, that to be neat, one must be clean! Of course, a well-cared-for body is most essential. Then, undergarments should be simple and fine, rather than elaborate and of inferior quality. Six complete sets of undergarments are quite too many, because one should put fresh ones on every other day, at least.

PEAKING of lingering, reminds me of an accident I heard of the other day. While the remark was quite astonishing, it had a ring of truth, as well as cleverness. A woman upon being asked how she was able to keep

Irish Peasant Neglige Caps
One of the easily made new models in boudoir caps is shaped like those worn by some of the Irish peasant women. The half-yard long and nine-inch wide strip of batiste and Valenciennes lace insertion, placed entire, each, of English eyeletting at each end, is dotted mullin, is edged on three sides with a tiny ruffle in sheer material and the narrow sides closely shirred a couple of inches from either end. A half-oval piece of the all-over material is then cut to cover the back of the head and to it the plain edge of one long side of the strip is gathered. Miss lin strings are attached above the ears and when the cap is adjusted it looks charmingly quaint and unusual. Moreover, it possesses the advantage of covering the hair where it usually is neglected at the nape of the neck. Caps of the same style are made to match kimonos or matinees in flowered challis.

FLOWER HOLDER

An excellent flower holder for keeping long stemmed and bulb-flowers upright in a shallow earthenware dish may be had by taking flat ribbons of lead, about an inch wide, which your plumber can supply, and twisting them into shapes to hold the stems.

her husband her devoted admirer replied: "By putting fresh ribbons in my lingerie every week!"

Idleness is to be despised! This is particularly so this season, because the fashionables since the republic undergarments as well as costumes with slender lines. And there is no reason why one's undergarments should not be just right, for the petticoats, drawers slips, chemises, drawers and combinations of previous seasons can be easily altered to conform with the new modes.

As Autumn approaches it is time to put aside shadow-box and chiffon lingerie—if one has been daring enough to adopt Fashion's Summer fad. Crepe de chine undergarments have again been endorsed for the coming season, and simple, bodiced nainsook lingerie is always a favorite in America, as well as in Paris. What very laicy garments are off-the-line and appeal to some women, they do not reflect refined taste!

It is, really, the foundation of woman's modesty. This fact has been illustrated to a realistic degree this season since the incorrect-effect figure has been in vogue. A few days ago, I met a woman who volunteered the information that she had adopted the incorrect figure and was delighted with the comfort of not wearing a corset. "You are a perfect goose!" I told her. "Have you thrown your pride to the wind? And, don't you know that it is quite apparent that you are not wearing a corset? By misinterpreting Fashion's idea of the new silhouette you are not neat and surely not modest. You must wear a corset to make sure that you possess those two very important qualities."

Do you wear the right corset? Do you think so, or do you know that you do? If possible, you should have your corsets fitted, because the hips and the bust must be the right length, and the abdomen must be properly supported—for the sake of neatness, as well as for the good of your health.

Do you know that many men judge a woman's appearance by her shoes? And, this season they have a greater opportunity to notice whether Madame's shoes fit her, if her heels are run-down. If her boots need polishing—because, the slashed and draped costumes make the feet very conspicuous. It is excellent if you acquire the habit of examining the heels every time you take

STOCKINGS are important, too. Unfortunately, some women have the mistaken idea that to be well-groomed, they must wear silk stockings. And the result is that they wear cheap silk kinds when fine cotton stockings would look more neat, and surely would be more appropriate and advantageous. Of course, silk stockings are a delightful luxury if you can afford the best, and if they do not make your feet too tender.

Gloves are always the keynote of woman's neatness! To see a woman wearing gloves with torn fingers or ones that are soiled generally indicate that there are many untidy defects in her costume. I know a clever newspaper-woman who was once discharged because she wore soiled white gloves.

Since white gloves are considered most modish, one would become bankrupt if one attempted to wear kid gloves all the while, for it would mean a cleaning expenditure of five or ten cents every time the gloves were worn. But, fortunately, there are white chamolisset gloves that may be washed to look like new—and they may be laundered successfully many times.

Woman is no different than man when it comes to the wearing of a soiled collar: She is unsightly--she is repulsive;

NETWORK fabrics are now much an important factor of the costume that they must be correct in style, as well as sweet and clean. Can you imagine anything more horrible than a ruche of soiled tulle in close contact with the neck? Indeed, a blouse or a dress can be kept ever new, simply by a fresh fabric, ruche or guimpe. The expense of such an improvement may be

If some of the new frocks are worn properly, they can make one look far from neat—especially those with the Oriental sash. To say that this sash can make one (with large hips) look sloppy, is putting it rather mildly. Some draped gowns also have the faculty of giving a careless appearance.

WHEN visiting Paris, the American woman sometimes wonders why the Parisiennes wear their hats in such a chic and perfect way. But in a little while she discovers that it is because their coiffures are always immaculate and just right for their chapeaux. This

A veil always gives the desired tone of neatness to the hat. Not only this season, but at all times, the best-dressed women in the world wear dainty veils—at present, the fllet and octagon mesh veillings are most fashionable. During the Summer, white veils are pre-terable, not only because they are cool but because they can be easily washed.

It seems needless, but nevertheless, beg to remind you that your outer apparel must be constantly brushed and kept free from spots.

To be well-dressed, you must have the habit of being neat.

Neatness is one of woman's greatest assets.

THE IDEA FOR THIS NOVEL & PRACTICAL DESIGN WAS ORIGINATED BY "WINIFRED WORTH"

Shirt-Waist Design for Embroidery

If you are acquainted with Roman cut-work you can appreciate the beauty of this design. It is not intricate at all, but you must exercise considerable patience to obtain best results. The white rose, double thread, for making all flowers. Work the rings in eyeslets, using single thread to whip the edges. Where Roman cut-work is shown (dark figure) work them over and over, or pass them to bring out each pattern in strong relief. A pair of sharp cuticle scissors will be found excellent to cut away the inner portions of the petals. Next place the goods in a frame, stretch the material tight and keep it so. Use white Hattersburg thread for all woven bars. Sew the roses together with oil and vinegar, using more of the former, dirt in the latter. If desired, garnish with a few large leaves and small tomatoes before serving.

Put some soap in a pint of hot water, stir and strain. Saturate design with mixture then remove excess moisture by partially drying design. Place material on a board laid surface, and with the Design is entirely transferred. PATENT PENDING.

ODDS AND ENDS

VIRIDITHOS on metal can be quickly removed by rubbing with a soft rag dipped in liquid ammonia.

A SMALL quantity of tannic acid on the range will counteract the odor of boiled cabbage or other vegetables.

IN darning curtains if the rent is large take a piece of an old curtain and patch the hole with it and the damage will scarcely be noticed.

CLEAN chamber pots, both tubs and marble wash basins with kerosene then rinse thoroughly with strong soap-suds to remove the odor of the kerosene.

ORANGEES, lemons and fine cantaloupes may be washed without loss of color if they be washed first in warm water in which a handful of very coarse salt has been dissolved.

A vacuum upholstered furniture should be kept directly upon the carpet and not on a board or mat, and the vacuum should be kept in the middle of the room.

WASH chamber pots which have been soiled and are badly discolored with a raw dipped in methylened spirit. When all the stains are removed polish in the usual way.

U SING ammonia to thicken fruit preserves. It works clearly and does not destroy the color, nor cloud the transparency of the fruit.

IT is a good plan to put the magnesia on party dresses and other light frocks that have become partly soiled, when putting them away whether they actually need to be cleaned or not. Then when they are taken out and shaken they are as fresh and dainty as when they were new.

EMBROIDERY "BEES"

BY EDNA EGAN.

THE present epidemic of embroidery has resulted in at least one great benefit. It has brought to the attention of the public the fact that the grandfathers and grandmothers of the present generation were not only good needlewomen, but also good housewives. The grandfathers and grandmothers of the present generation were not only good needlewomen, but also good housewives. The grandfathers and grandmothers of the present generation were not only good needlewomen, but also good housewives.

A smart embroidery bee has a stamp of antiquated elegance. Invitations recently issued to one were printed in old script on long, narrow cards and framed in a quaint outline of red and black. Two dozen ladies were invited and the request for their society on the day specified read as follows:

"Sweet Madam: You are hereby summoned to bring your tapestries and linen suits to our home for an embroidery bee. The day is the coming Thursday, and the hour is 3 of the afternoon clock."

SALADS

LEEK Salad—Cut the white part of young leeks into small, equal sized pieces. Scald a large tomato, remove the skin, leave until cold and cut into thin slices. Wash a head of lettuce, break off the leaves and arrange them on a fancy dish. Put in the sliced tomato and then the leeks. Mix together oil and vinegar, using more of the former, dirt in the latter. If desired, garnish with a few large leaves and small tomatoes before serving.

Cliffside Salad—This is named from its dressing rather than for its base, which may be of lettuce, romaine, chervil, tomatoes, beets or celery in season. The dressing is made as follows: Take a hard boiled egg and season with salt and pepper. With a fork, beat two pinches of paprika and a pinch of salt, half a teaspoonful of French mustard, and a teaspoonful of oil and three table-spoonsful of vinegar. Add this to the salad, mix it well and serve at once.

Handsome Salad—Toss up a large quantity of white sand, and wash well, using several waters, drain on a cloth strangle in a salad bowl and season with salt and pepper. Cut into dice shaped pieces, two ounces of bacon and put into a frying pan over the fire until they become a golden color, which will take about five minutes. Add the dice to the sand. Then pour into the pan a little of the oil and vinegar, and mix well. Let it stand for half a minute, then pour over all, mix well together and serve immediately.

KITCHEN FLOORS

THE kitchen floor, which needs constant scrubbing, often causes much trouble, as soap and water soften the wood and increase its tendency to splinter. If it is splintered much it must be scraped smooth and then with care it ought to do nicely.

Have the floor clean and smooth, by treating them with a paste composed of milk and starch. Two and then brush off. It is necessary to repeat the process.

NO application is better for luster, less hair than salt. Rub well into the roots of the hair at night, then tie up in a large handkerchief or wear a night cap. Brush out the salt in the morning. Several applications will show a marked improvement in the appearance of the hair.

WHEN the eyes refuse to sparkle there is a physical cause which needs attention. Often it is from indigestion or torpid liver, in which case careful diet and regular exercise in the open air should work a cure.

THE eyes are a greater mistake than to try to brighten dull eyes with drugs or drops. Eyesight is too important to be tampered with, and even the common practice of putting a drop or two of cologne in the eyes to make them brilliant is injurious.

THE eye has a habit of registering the health. Thus a lack of luster, heavy, lidded expression is generally the result of excessive fatigue or ill-health; a dilated pupil usually means fever; a yellowish tint to the white of the eye bespeaks biliousness, while an extreme bluishness of the white is often an indication of impure blood or a serious tendency.

A SHINING nose is an effect that can hardly be overcome by the ingenuity of the novelist. A mixture composed of one ounce of distilled water, eight minims of diluted tincture of lavender and two grains of sulphate of zinc, will, if applied with a soft piece of muslin four times daily, do much to correct the trouble. The balm should be well mixed and should not be allowed to remain overnight.

A PLEASANT way to massage the face is to have one of the little rubber cups that are filled with a good cold cream and are manipulated by suction. Put it on different parts of the face and work the rubber gently. It gives a wonderfully refreshing feeling. The face should first be washed in warm water.

THE merits of doctrogen as a mouth wash are not as well realized as they should be. It is easy to get and not expensive. A stopped glass bottle of it should be on every washstand. After using it, the mouth should be brushed with tooth powder to brush the teeth, the mouth should be rinsed out with cold water. It is a strong antiseptic, keeps the teeth from decaying and protects the top of the mouth and gums from sore spots or from frost-biting and emanating a disagreeable odor. The toothbrush should always be kept in a little of it and brushed over the teeth and gums at morning.

FAMOUS lotion of colonial days, known as "morning dew," consisted of one ounce of rosewater, half an ounce of glycerin, half a teaspoonful of borax and three drops of lemon. The quantities may be multiplied, if a greater amount is needed. The lotion is applied to the chapped face, made rough from wind or exposure, with a bit of old linen.

WHEN there is the slightest untoward tendency to curl a thin veil becomes an invaluable asset. Before putting it on the hair should be brushed and made ready to dress, then hold loosely and moistened with a soft brush, wet with water. Finally the strands are twisted loosely near the scalp, and the head is again combed over with the wet brush. Following this grooming a thin face veil should be put on after a small quantity of hair cream has been applied. This knot should be placed at the base of the neck and the ends left over the top of the head.

THE quilt should be one continuous piece, smooth, glossy and pliable. Use Bala must be wide, pliable and without decorative marks visible to the eye. When buying a black velvet plume always be careful to select the one with the finest gloss.

IF it is the water, the plume may be changed, but the former it is no good except for lining and pointing at last.

A good plume properly worn should last five years at least. The plume was originally a light color, a poor quality of plume or poor work.

THIS allows for one curling a year or two, possibly two red-dippings if the plume was originally a light color. A good plume that has been properly curled will be pretty old and will have seen a lot of wear before it is redipped.

THE only remedy for this is a bath in the detergent and often the result is only a rusty black.

IRELAND'S CRUSADE AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Women of Emerald Isle Aiding in Improving Its Health Conditions

The Countess of Aberdeen, ruler of Ireland, is president of the Women's National Health association, of Ireland, and, by her interest in promoting the better upbringing of her own and her subjects' children, has won a vigorous race.

The objects of this association are to secure the public opinion, especially that of the women of Ireland, to a sense of responsibility regarding the physical and mental health of the new edge of what may be done in every home and by every householder, in order to secure the best possible results when it appears.

Its foundation was largely due to the fact that the death rate in Ireland is already high death rate from tuberculosis in Ireland, and to a general desire to improve the physical health of the native generation.

The general standard of health was so low that it was necessary to the fact that a large proportion of the healthy young men and women emigrated to America, leaving the motherland to carry on the race.

Direct Appeal to Women.
There was a curious apathy and feeling of hopelessness on the subject, and it was felt that the only way of arousing the country would be to make a direct appeal to the women in whose hands the remedy really lay.

The Women's National Health association, which has been the driving force of Aberdeen, has carried on a health campaign which has meant a campaign against tuberculosis and other health.

It has taken part not only in the annual tuberculosis drive but in drives to promote good health, and the welfare and happiness of the people in the most possible manner.

Tuberculosis Exhibitions.

The first step taken by the Women's National Health association was the formation of a tuberculosis exhibition, following the example of similar exhibitions in the United States and on the continent.

The exhibition was first held, and later on a traveling caravan, to visit outlying parts that could not afford to have a permanent exhibition.

In every place a local committee was formed to work in co-operation with the Women's National Health association, and attractive programs of lectures and demonstrations. Everywhere the exhibition was well received, and the caravan visited many distant parts of the country.

Some permanent branches of the Women's National Health association have the National Health association was formed wherever the exhibition or caravan visited, with the result that there are about 150 branches of the association with about 18,000 members. In 1908 the association shared the first prize of $1,000 with the C. O. S. of New York, as the two voluntary societies who had done the most for

The central association gives its branches as much liberty as possible and encourages local initiative in planning health work to suit the needs of each district.

The work carried on by the local branches varies with the needs of the districts in which they are situated. Among the many activities are the maintenance of district nurses, nourishment and care committees, arrangements for sending children needing change of air or special care to the country, management of babies' club, milk depots, girls' clubs, cooking classes, health talks for school children.

tion of schools by nurses, transformation of derelict playgrounds, provision of school meals for children, instruction in raising flowers, vegetables and fruits, improvement of homes, and cooperation with local authorities respecting health work of various kinds.

Broad Influence of Association.
The good work of the Women's National Health association cannot be confined within the bounds of health matters. A great factor for good is the social life which radiates from the branches. It has given an entire new life to many of the rural districts and brought many together in a delightful fellowship where they had lived apart, two pence—half penny looking down on two pence.

They are pulling together out of the rut of apathy, and are in touch with the women workers of the world.

To quote a correspondent from one branch to the Countess of Aberdeen, "We were dead until the Women's National Health association came among us. we had no life. We all belong, we are no longer strangers to each other."

In 1909 the Countess of Aberdeen

when visiting New York, received from Mr. Robert J. Collier, of New York 5,000 pounds, to be paid in yearly instalments of 1,000 pounds, for the purpose of providing a memorial in Ireland of his father, the late Mr. P. F. Collier, who was so well-known and deservedly popular in Ireland.

The form of the memorial was not dictated save that it was to supply a need in the Irish anti-tuberculosis campaign, and Mr. Collier read it.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

To the Clubs of the Georgia Federation: Many of the arrangements for the annual convention to be held at Cuthbert October 28-29-30-31 must be made now, therefore I beg that the names of all club officers for 1913-1914 be sent immediately to: J. H. McGehee, Secy.

Asks U. D. C. Chapters to Protest Against Ambassador Page's Novel

The following circular letter has been sent out to the president of each U. D. C. chapter:

Dear Sir: I have a marked copy of The Neale's Monthly for July sent to you. It is the first article in the same and also the marked article in the same number by the name of "The Southerner" and then I wish you would call it to the attention of the U. D. C. and place the whole matter before the members.

We southerners of course, you know that the Neale house is southern and we are not to permit the world to think that America is a northern country. "The Southerner," truly represents "The Southerner," truly represents southerners.

It is my happy duty, as one southerner to another, to help us expose the truth.

I suggest, too, that you call the matter to the attention of your local newspaper.

I would like to know of any action taken by you in this matter.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM L. BROWN,
Assistant Editor of The Neale's Monthly.

BULLET FOR SENATOR BACON.

Senator Bacon has simply stated that he has no objection to the publication of The Neale's Monthly in the pocket of Mr. Bacon's campaign. MRS. KATE LINGO FANN

The world's master poet has said, "A good man is moulded out of many faults," but a good woman is moulded of many virtues, and naught but the angels' wings can find for her a higher plane." So it was, when the messenger of death touched the chords of life and pulled the heart of one of Earth's noblest, Mrs. Kate Lingo Fann.

After "Sound together in such a minute" had been read, the J. D. Franklin success for its betterment.

soils that respond quickly to proper treatment there is no excuse for any man continuing to cultivate poor soil. The man who does so is alone to blame. He is a man who grows one crop a year, and to double his yields in five years, all he has to do is to add to each year, each year, without a pause, the following:

removes tan, redness or freckles quite away. It literally peels off the affected skin—just a little at a time, so there's no hurt or injury. As the skin comes off in almost invisible flaky parcels, no trace of the treatment is shown. Get an ounce of the mercorized wax at your druggist's and use this twice as you scrub acid.

If we work the mule constantly and feed little he soon becomes poor, and if we crop the soil constantly and put little back it also becomes poor. The difference is that in the one case we starve the mule and in the other we starve ourselves.—The Progressive Farmer.

Safety in City Streets.
(From Leslie's.)

A pamphlet issued by the American Museum of Safety, New York, of which Dr. William H. Tolman is the director, impresses on girls and boys the danger of city streets and gives the following careful rules, which every city child should heed:

Never stand or sit on the car step; nor put your head or hands out of the car window.

Never get off a car facing the rear.

With the left hand take hold of the grip handle, left foot to the step, right foot to ground; face forward.

Never fall on leaving the car to look

Never run in front of a passing car.

Never hitch on and steal rides behind street cars or wagons.

Never play on the car rails.

There is little resemblance between the chic little ostrich-trimmed hat of the present mode and the quaint, almost ridiculous coal scuttle bonnet of one hundred and fifty years ago. Can it be possible that the women of one hundred and fifty years hence will look back at the fashions of to-day in the same manner as we regard those of a bygone time? Examine the queer and elaborate shirred bonnet of 1800 and the wired and stiffened affair worn by the woman of 1830.

Some little resemblance to the picture hat of to-day is noticed in the Leghorn of 1810, which goes to prove that fashions, like history, are bound to repeat themselves as time rolls on. Certain it is that the Picot-edged ribbon shown on the bonnet of 1860 is again used by smart milliners of Paris and America.

STUDEBAKERS START ANOTHER INNOVATION

Set Apart One Entire Manufactory to Make Parts for Studebaker Cars.

By placing at the disposal of its service department, an entire plant completely outfitted with expensive machinery and able to turn out on short notice parts for every model of its cars now in the hands of the public, the Studebaker Corporation has taken an advanced step toward the ideal relationship between manufacturer and the owners of his cars.

"There are some considerably more than 100,000 Studebaker cars in the hands of owners," asserts General Manager Clarence H. Booth. "So far as we know, all these cars are in daily service, despite the fact that many of the earliest models have been driven upwards of 75,000 miles.

Factory to Make Parts.

"No mechanical device will endure constant service without at least occasional replacements. These must, if satisfactory, be supplied by the parent factory. Up-to-date we have furnished Studebaker parts from this source, though the process confined to some extent our scheme of production. By setting apart one factory for this purpose, our service arrangements are practically ideal and our regular manufacturing system uninterrupted.

The plant purchased by the Studebaker is at Pontiac, and was formerly known as the Vulcan Gear Works.

Later, in an enlarged form, it was used as the main building of an automobile company which recently went into the hands of a receiver. Communication with the main plants of the Studebaker system will be by rail and automobile trucks.

Get Immediate Repairs.

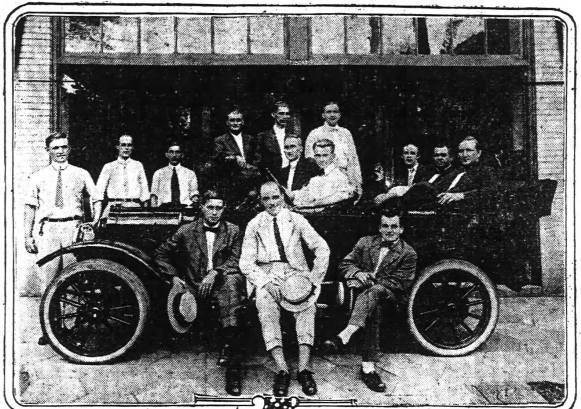

Aside from insuring a permanent supply of parts for all Studebaker models, an advantage of the plant will be its ability to turn out for each Studebaker dealer a stock of parts fitted to the needs of his territory, thus permitting him to install immediate repairs on any Studebaker car. In equipping the plant, the Studebakers are able to make use of much machinery used in the production of former models, all of which have been built complete in the Corporation's factories.

The service plant will be known as No. 13 of the Studebaker system. A. Austin is in charge as superintendent.

New York, August 9.—Isidor Straus, the merchant and philanthropist, who lost his life when the Titanic sank in April, 1912, left an estate valued at $4,365,105. His wife, Mrs. Isidor Straus, who refused to leave her husband when she could have saved herself, before the Titanic went down, left an estate of $23,575. The partial estimate of the estate of Benjamin Disraeli, another Titanic victim, which was filed today, shows that it will total several millions, although the exact amount will not be known for some time. The incomplete schedule shows holdings of $748,990. The bequests total $448,990. The six children of Mr. and Mrs. Straus are the sole heirs of their combined estates. In his will, Mr. Straus made mention of charitable bequests, but left a letter to his children urging them to continue his philanthropy. The six children already have contributed $185,000 to benevolence in which their father was interested.

SOUTHERN AUTO DEALERS VIEWING THE NEW MAXWELL MODEL "25" AT COMPANY'S SHOWROOM IN ATLANTA

A very interesting meeting of all the Maxwell dealers in the south was held in Atlanta during the first part of the past week. C. F. Redden, general sales manager of the Maxwell Motor company, addressed the meeting at a luncheon at the Ansley hotel, given in honor of Mr. Redden's visit.

200 MILES AN HOUR FOR MOTOR CAR OF FUTURE

Henry Ford, of Detroit, Sees No Reason Why Great Speed Can't Be Reached.

Detroit, Mich., August 9.—"What do you think the evolution of the motor car ultimately will produce?" Henry Ford turned and smiled slightly. "Tell me what you mean," he replied. "The clumsy two-wheeled cart of the world's youth evolved into the luxurious limousine, the Montgolfier balloon, lifted by hot air, developed into the Curtiss biplane. In what way will the motor car of the future differ from the first motor car?" Mr. Ford passed a hand over his iron-gray hair and his eyes took on a contemplative look. The man who retreated Sinda's diamond valley out of his mechanician's brain was thinking of the painful early path it suggested that each rights of air or 300 years do not belong to the inventor but to those who have the vision to follow. "It will not be long before the present 1,500-pound motor car will be reduced in weight to 500 pounds. This will mean greater speed and somewhat lower price. But the price cannot be greatly decreased because lighter material demands greater strength and craftsmanship.

"Although I am not a speed enthusiast, I see no reason why motor cars should not eventually attain 150 or 200 miles an hour. But there would be no room for pedestrians on streets used by such machines. They would require special highways. In fact, rails would probably be the proper thing. Just as we have rails now for our railroad trains."

"Would gasoline be used for such sufficient power for these light speedy machines?"

"Oh, yes, though it might be necessary to mingle other liquids."

"Wouldn't friction set on fire a motor car going at 200 miles an hour unless some new lubricant were employed?"

"By no means, we have dynamic application of lubricating oil."

And this was as far as Henry Ford would go in snatching motor secrets from the future.

Ex-Minister Finch Dead.

La Crosse, Wis., August 9.—William H. Finch, United States minister to Paraguay and Uruguay from 1897 to 1905 and for many years publisher of the La Crosse Republican and Leader, was found dead in a bathroom at his residence here this afternoon. Death is thought to have been due to apoplexy. Mr. Finch was 65 years old.

Five Men Are Killed When Boiler Explodes.

Clarkville, Texas, August 9.—Five men were instantly killed and two more so badly injured that it is believed they will die, when a boiler at the Major's sawmill, 10 miles south of Clarkville, exploded today.

The dead: C. J. Majors, George Majors, Will Gouger, Joe Daniels and Pinky Hawkins.

The injured: Ernest Peacock and Tony Costa. C. J. Majors and his son, George Majors, moved to this country from Pennsylvania, two years and purchased large tracts of timber and prairie land.

Tainted Ice Cream Causes Two Deaths.

Mostertown, Pa., August 9.—Tainted ice cream, according to state health authorities, is responsible for the deaths of two persons and the serious illness of thirty others of this city. The latter, four are believed to be dying. The disease seems to be a complication of typhoid fever and staphylococcus poisoning. The dead are Paul Bacon, aged 14, of Mostertown, and Clyde Baines, aged 18, of Hickerman's Corners. The critically ill are Miss Jessie Adams, Frederick Van Sot and two children, all of this place.

The ice cream was eaten at a party several weeks ago.

MADE GOOD RECORDS IN INDIANA-PACIFIC TOUR

Premier Led Way on Long Trip, and G. & J. Truck Attracts Considerable Attention.

Los Angeles, August 9.—The Indiana-Pacific tour, consisting entirely of Indiana manufacturers, touring to the Pacific coast on a booster and good road trip, was completed at Los Angeles August 8.

This tour was a splendid example of the co-operation of competing manufacturers in an endeavor to make an unequalled success of the greatest booster trip ever undertaken. Great credit is reflected upon the product of Indiana by the fact that every car which started on the tour completed the journey to the coast.

Premier Leads the Way.

In view of the great experience Premier cars and Hay McNamara have had in tours and in going across the continent several times, it was a natural thing that McNamara and his Premier should have been chosen as the pilot to lead the way from Indianapolis to Los Angeles. The driver and the car bore out their past reputation by making all the way into all centers, including both room and night. The distance registered by the Premier pilot was 3,740 miles.

A. L. Westgard, chairman of the national highway commission, and Home for Argentine Legation.

Buenos Aires, August 9.—An appropriation of $10,000 requested by the Argentine government for the purchase of a building at Washington for the Argentine legation to the United States, was approved today by the senate committee.

known as the "Good Road Finder of America," whose car was selected to carry the various governors through the several states through which they passed across their state, drove his Premier with the tour to Los Angeles. From Los Angeles, Mr. Westgard turned north to Portland to complete his 17,000 miles of road-traveling before bad weather set in.

G. & J. Truck Attracts Attention.

The car which came in for more than its share of consideration in every control was the G. & J. truck put in the tour by the United States Fire company to carry a load of assorted sizes of spare tires to take care of the requirements en route. This truck was driven by Walter Weidner, the youngest driver on the tour, being yet in his teens. Walter Weidner is the son of George Weidner, designer of Premier cars. This was a 1911 rebuilt Premier pleasure car which had seen two years' service, but it again proved the sturdiness of Premier, and went through this trip with great credit to its performance.

McNamara's cars had the original Indianapolis air in two tires, was equipped with three of the original tires at the finish, and suffered only three punctures. The G. & J. truck finished with booster air in two tires. The other cars in the tour made records which not only reflect credit upon the highly developed motor car of today, but special credit upon the product of Indiana.

East Freetown, Mass., August 9.—Six women and a man were drowned and three other persons were saved when a motor boat sank in Long Pond tonight.

The dead are George Wright and Miss Haven, of Brockton; Miss Hattie Hamilton, Laconia; Miss Annie Sweney, Miss Radie McCabe, Miss Isabel Brown and Mrs. Emma Doyle, all of New Bedford.

Mrs. Henry W. Raymond and Luther M. Davison, of New Bedford, and R. James Stevens, Laconia, were rescued by Frederick Macey, who has a cottage at the pond, and who, responding to cries for help, was able to pick up four persons in his motorboat. One of the four, Miss McCabe, failed to revive. The other was found dead a day later.

Lakeside park. Soon after leaving shore the boat sprang a leak. Some reports said that the bottom dropped out. Sackness added to the difficulties of rescue work. Mr. Macey's boat was the first to reach the scene. When other boats arrived no other bodies could be found.

Up to midnight none of the six bodies had been recovered.

Goodrich Tires—Best in the Long Run

All 1914 Demands of Automobile Dealers and Buyers are Fulfilled in the

Delco System

Starting, Lighting, Ignition on Every Buick

The Delco System for 1914 is built into the car. It is an integral part of the mechanism. It is a part of every Buick, regardless of price—heretofore furnished only on higher priced cars. We know it worthy of Buick standards of dependableness.

A Buick for All

There is a Buick model for every man who intends to buy any car. You who look closely to expense will find that there are cars that sell for some less than Buicks. But count what you get; count upkeep cost; count market value after months or years of use; count daily satisfaction in certainty of service, comfort, convenience, appearance and pride of ownership.

The Complete Line of Four Cylinder and Six Cylinder Cars - Electric Cranking, Lighting and Ignition - Left Hand Drive and Center Control

READ those display lines again. They contain the biggest news, the most important message that will appear in all the announcements on 1914 cars. America's leading dealers—the men who sold 30,000 Buicks last year, and have sold 150,000 in all—find that we have overleaped even their highest expectations.

Those who know the Buick have already decided on it as their 1914 car, regardless of equipment, because of what the car is fundamentally, because of the Buick Overhead Valve Motor with its greater power, speed and economy, Buick dependableness and serviceableness—with all the proved improvements—everything which is latest and best in automobile construction.

Dealers in territory not already occupied will see in this announcement an opportunity, for they know the business-building thinking power behind Buick reputation. They know that where one Buick is sold many will follow. They know what a large, permanent, ever-growing asset a Buick contract represents.

Topping Off A Nine-Year Record of "Making Good"

The 1914 Buick presents every approved feature that has demonstrated itself worthy of that record. The Improved Delco System of Electric Starting, Lighting and Ignition was adopted for the Buick only after exhaustive experiment, which proved that it had Buick dependableness and durability.

INVITATION TO DEALERS

A live dealer in a good territory should make money; if he doesn't, it's because he is frittering away his time with a line that is a handicap. If your territory is open, why waste your time when with the Buick you can not only make money for yourself, but build up a satisfactory permanent business. A solid, permanent business must have its foundation in satisfied customers who are ready to back up your statements. That is why Buick dealers prosper, for it has been demonstrated that a good car for the dealer must be a good car for the user.

The sale of 30,000 Buicks this year is only a promise of what our 1914 output will be. We can now supply more dealers because of our increased capacity.

RIGHT NOW is the time to take it up if you want to join the big car-making and selling organization of America. Buick dealers don't change. The reason will interest you if you are a live dealer in open territory.

SPOONER'S WEEKLY AUTO NOTES GATHERED FROM VARIOUS SOURCES

By Ed Spooner, Detroit.

Harry Fordick, former director of sales for the Hupp Motor Car company, and located in Detroit, has been removed to Boston, where he has become New England distributor for the Hupp Motor company, replacing H. J. Kneibler, who has given up the Hupp in both Boston and New York and also in Newark, to become eastern distributor of the Grant car to be made in Detroit.

Owens is all torn apart by the removal of the truck factory of the General Motor company from that city, and two others want to bring suit for the recovery of the property constituted when the plant was located in that city, action desired by the Owens Improvement association, which has learned of the intention of the General Motor company to locate another department of its work in the plant.

Indiana-Pacific tourists, in their reports of the trip through the mountain country of the west, when an altitude of nearly 12,000 feet was reached, spoke of the fact that the motor cars showed a temperature of 115, but George H. Townsend, president of the Automobile company of New York, now in Detroit, says that the tourists forgot that water boils at 75 degrees at 12,000 feet.

Mario Andreotti, representing Andreotti & Co. of Rome, Italy, spent two weeks at the factory of Motor and Italian Motor car company at Kalamazoo and contacted with that company for the distribution of Italian cars in Italy, Spain, Portugal, and other countries, and the plan arranged with the Grant Motor company, Detroit, to handle the Grant car in its native land.

Dealers of the Chalmers Motor company, who have visited the plant this week to inspect the new model, include Carl Page, New York, George Rione, New York, John Van Dusen, Pittsburgh, C. S. Sawyer, Asheville, N. C., H. H. June, Birmingham, Van B. Wheaton, Amsterdam, N. Y., M. Jamison, Chicago, and J. M. Meares, Fair, Des Moines, Iowa, Poling, Ottumwa, Iowa, and Truesdell, New Orleans, La.

Through the visit of a gentleman from the Oranges, in New Jersey, to Detroit, it has been learned that the Edison company is building a new plant, and that this six-story building, half a mile from the Ford plant, will be used to manufacture Ford batteries to the number of 250,000, for which orders have been placed.

ABOUT TO KILL WIFE, CRAZED MAN IS SHOT

After Being Wounded Sanford Flees and Cuts His Throat.

Green Castle, Ind., August 9.—Otis Sanford, crazed by drink, went to the neighborhood of Bainbridge near here this morning and received injuries which will cause his death. Sanford went to the home of his wife, who had fled with her child, and around her and the three children. Their screams attracted the woman's father, Aaron Hank, and her brother, Ray Hank, who lived in an adjoining house.

The two men took shotguns, but Sanford had disappeared. They saw Mrs. Sanford and the children to the Hank home and sat down to await Sanford's return. In a few minutes flames began issuing from Mr. Hank's back. Sanford's men had used other outbuildings. While the two men were waiting the day, they were recalled to the house by Mrs. Hank and her daughter, assuming that Sanford was in the house, trying to get it on fire and kill his wife.

Ray Hank grabbed his shotgun again. He shot her in the back of the head and fired. The Sanford men took the woman and ran. Sanford fled and cut his throat. Sanford was found by the police and taken to the hospital.

Nothing information in his many friends reached Detroit last Wednesday night through a telephone call from the Detroit office of the Detroit Police Department. The Detroit Police Department is now looking for Sanford.

W. T. Storker, general manager of the Detroit Police Department, is now looking for Sanford. He is a man of about 35 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches tall, 170 pounds, with dark hair and eyes, and a mustache.

Three Staver, one Paige-Detroit, one Mitchell, one Abbott, three Stuts, and a Midland car are on order for the year. The Detroit Police Department is now looking for Sanford.

The marriage of Mr. B. C. Harris and Miss Pearl Goodhue, one of the head nurses at Wesley Memorial hospital at the residence of Rev. S. T. Bell in West End Friday night, was the culmination of a romance of twelve years.

It was that long ago that the groom met the bride-to-be at the residence of the parents. It is said, resulted in Miss Goodhue becoming a nurse. Then she played his part and caused Mr. Harris to become ill at two different occasions. It is said, each time Miss Goodhue was his hospital nurse.

The happy couple have gone to Gainesville, Ga., for a few days, and from there they will go to Los Angeles to make their future home.

Strike Is Postponed.
Detroit, Mich., August 9.—Late tonight members of the Detroit Street Carriers union decided to postpone until next Saturday night action in a resolution to strike. This was done after union leaders announced it was quite possible that a neutral arbitrator could be secured up to assist next week in settling the long-running dispute between the street railway and its motormen and conductors.

These braided wires, which we control, gave us rulership of tiredness.

The No-Rim-Cut tire is a Goodyear invention, and we still control it. An essential feature is these braided wires, which no one else can make. This tire can't rim-cut—that we guarantee. This fact has saved motorists many millions of dollars.

It has also made Goodyears the world's favorite tires. They now out-sell any other.

Ruins Almost 1 in 3
Time and again we have gathered statistics to show what rim-cuts cost. This year we employed certified public accountants, so the figures could not be disputed. They examined thousands of ruined clincher tires, taking them as they came. The old-type hooked-base tires. And they found that 31.8 per cent had been discarded for rim-cutting only.

How We Did It
We did this by making a hookless tire—one that does not hook to the rim. Thus your removable rim flanges can be set to curve outward—no inward as with clincher tires.

TWO NEW VELLIE CARS START ON LONG TRIPS

Routes Laid Out for Each Car Is Some 3,000 Miles.

Two Vellie cars, 1914 models, one a new "6" the other a new "4", were sent out from the factory, Moline, Ill., July 10, on long trips, the "6" going east, the "4" west, the aim being to provide the builders opportunity to judge of performance of the new models under most trying conditions. The route laid out for each car is the same—3,000 miles—and the average daily mileage set for each car is 100 miles, making that fifteen days from July 10—the night of August 14—both should check in at the Vellie plant. Bureaus will not be held.

The new "6" is driven by Edward Wiles, experimental engineer, and his route is from here to Chicago, Toledo, Buffalo, Boston, Providence, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Richmond, Roanoke, Va., across the Blue Ridge mountains into West Virginia, again across the mountains into Cumberland, Md., to Springfield, Cleveland and home.

The car making the western trip will be piloted by Harry Oldfield, also of the experimental department, and the route is from Moline to St. Louis, Oklahoma City, Guthrie, Topeka, Kansas City, Omaha, Fargo, N. D., Duluth, Minneapolis, Green Bay, Chicago and home.

G. H. Bryant, advertising manager.

It is making the trip by train from Moline to Buffalo, joining Wiles and accompanying him as far as Pittsburgh. There he will take the train to Duluth, transferring attention to the car that Oldfield will pilot, accompanying him through Minnesota sands and on into Chicago.

Crack Polo Players Are Badly Injured
New York, August 9.—According to cable advices received here tonight from London, Walter Buckmaster and Captain J. O. Miller, the polo players, were seriously injured today in a motor accident near Esher, Eng. Captain Miller was in charge of the party used in the last international cup series played at Meadow Brook last June. An injury to Mr. Buckmaster, who was selected to captain the English team, prior to the cup matches, kept him out of the game at that time.

At a late hour tonight, the message stated, both Captain Miller and Mr. Buckmaster were unconscious.

THE GOODYEAR SECRET

This hookless tire makes it essential to have an unstretchable tire base. It must be held on, under every strain, so that nothing can stretch the tire over the rim flange.

We get this by vulcanizing into the tire base six flat bands of 120 braided wires. See picture at the top.

This tire can't be forced off. But when you unlock and remove a flange it easily slips off. There are no hooks on the base to "freeze" into the rim flange, as with old-type tires.

How We Combat Two Other Ruinations
To minimize blow-outs we use the "On-Air Cure." The tires are final-vulcanized on elastic air bags instead of an iron core.

This prevents the fabric from buckling and wrinkling. It equalizes strains. Thus we avoid the cause of countless blow-outs.

This "On-Air Cure," used by us alone, adds to our cost $1,500 daily.

Next to rim-cutting, the costliest items in tire upkeep are due to blow-outs and tread separation.
